

Bisbee and Warren District SOCIETY

KLINE-FRANKENBERG WEDDING

Though the wedding of Miss Lillian Kline, one of Bisbee's well known society girls, to Sam Frankenberg, of this city, has received mention here, the following mention from the society columns of the Bisbee Daily Journal, will give a better idea of the beautiful wedding in which the prominent Fair Store proprietor was the groom.

The notice follows:

As the twilight was falling last evening the parlor floor of the Crosby house was the scene of a wedding. The bride, Miss Lillian Kline, was escorted to the altar by her father, Mr. J. S. Kline. The bridegroom, Sam Frankenberg, was escorted by his best man, Mr. J. S. Kline. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. S. Kline. The wedding was a most beautiful affair, and the guests were most numerous. The bride wore a beautiful gown of white tulle and lace, and the bridegroom wore a suit of dark blue cloth. The reception was held at the Crosby house, and the guests were most numerous. The wedding was a most beautiful affair, and the guests were most numerous.

The bride was attended in a directress gown of white satin, with a train of real lace, and from her queenly head fell a cloud-like veil of white held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms, while she carried a bridal bouquet of orchids, lilies of the valley and ferns. Mrs. J. S. Kline, sister of the bride, acted as matron of honor and never looked better than in the creation of white tulle and lace and embroidered chiffon, with arm bouquet of lilies and sweet peas. Little Dorothy Gordon, as ring bearer, was crowned in a Frenchy little tiara of imported embroidery and bore her honors most gracefully. As the bride entered she was met by the bridegroom and his attendant, Dr. M. D. Cohn of Bisbee, Ariz., and the strains of the Lohengrin wedding chorus filled every corner. Mrs. J. J. Solinsky rendered in exquisite richness De Hardelet's "Because," as a pre-nuptial solo, which delighted all. Immediately after the ceremony greetings and good wishes were showered upon the happy pair by a hundred or more guests, and in the clatter of happy voices and sweet music there was added the accompaniment of a delectable service of refreshments and punch, carrying out the nuptial motif.

To be in readiness for the honeymoon trip to California, the bride early slipped away, to return attired in sand-colored traveling suit with accessories of hat, gloves and shoes in the same tone, a most chic array, and joining the happy bridegroom they boarded the 9:20 Southern Pacific for the Golden Gate, where, until May 1, they will do the Panama Pacific exposition, and then take up their residence in Bisbee, where Mr. Frankenberg is already highly regarded in the business and social world and will find a hearty welcome for his gracious and accomplished wife, whom Texas yields up reluctantly.

GIRLS' THICKEN AND BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR

Bring back its gloss, lustre, charm and get rid of dandruff—Try the moist cloth.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a 25 cent bottle of Danderine. Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance; freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp. Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower; destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.

VARIETY MAKES THE KEY NOTE OF SPRING AND SUMMER STYLES BY MAY MANTON

ONE of the most, if not the most interesting feature of Spring fashions is to be found in the very great variety offered. We will wear a great many garments in Empire style, fancy little boleros and Eton jackets are exceedingly smart; but at the same time, the plain gown or frock with a belt arranged at the low waist-line, is fashionable. The one that is shown here is designed for young girls and for small women; it is especially good for serge, for linen and for similar materials that require a tailored finish. The Empire coat-suit is one of the prettiest that has been shown, for the coat is full below a yoke portion and flares most becomingly. The skirt is a semi-circular one with a seam at the front and seam at the back.

On the sitting figure is shown an Empire frock with long pointed tunic and with back closing and many of the newest models are closed in this way, and the pointed, flaring tunic is exceedingly smart. In the illustration, the gown is made of broadcloth with broad banding med as trimming and beneath the trimming is shown a two-piece skirt of moderate width.

IT is doubtful if the bordered material were ever so varied or so beautiful as they are this season and that is true in spite of the shortage of imported stuffs. Taffeta is a pronounced favorite and the bordered taffetas are exquisite and they are not aggressive, but they show stripes in wonderful colors and often the designs are not more than one and one-half inches in width. They are perfect for the flounced skirts that will be so much worn and that are altogether most attractive. Under the conditions there will inevitably be a limited supply of lace, consequently trimmings that can be accomplished by the needle, embroidery, braiding, beads used with good effect, scallops and the like are conspicuous. The coming season might indeed be called the needle-woman's season for it offers one exceptional opportunity and the home dressmaker who is skillful will be able to accomplish most desirable results. Scallops are being used not alone to finish the edges, but they are applied over plain materials and cords, plaques, ruffles and all trimmings that can be made of material are being extensively employed.

A most exquisite dancing gown, is for example, made with long tunic of silver net over a pastel colored taffeta skirt and from the edge to the belt, the tunic is ornamented with applied scallops of the taffeta arranged in a succession of rows, and scallops are put to similar uses upon gowns of many sorts.

Most attractive frocks of linen for simple occasions are finished with edges that are scalloped and bound in whatever way scallops can be employed either as trimming or finish, they are to be seen. Embroidery of the gold and silver sort embellishes a great many costumes and beads, too, are being lavishly used. A most attractive gown is made of black poplin showing a moderately wide foundation skirt with very wide and flaring over-skirt which is pointed at front and back and edged with black bead fringe while the jacket consists of blue satin richly beaded and with iridescent beads applied over a rose and scroll design. A very handsome street costume of dark brown poplin is enriched with braiding of silver soutache combined with brown silk embroidery and wherever handsome costumes are worn and exploited, there is evidence of the needle-woman's skill. With the coming of Summer we will of course wear lingerie gowns embroidered and numbers of the Spring suits are showing soutache applied over simple designs. Some of the trimmings that are made of material are exceedingly quaint and interesting and the costumes that result are novel even while in some ways they give evidence of an earlier period. A quaint costume that is charmingly reminiscent is made of silk cashmere in a beautiful shade of blue. It consists of a plain, much flared skirt finished at its lower edge with little loops of faille ribbon set at about their own width apart, the ribbon being approximately one and one-half inches in width. There is a plain bodice with long, plain sleeves, but these sleeves are slightly full below the elbows and at the outer seams and are trimmed with loops of the ribbon in about the depth of a wide cuff. The bodice is cut to form a V of moderate depth and the front edges are beaded while there are three of the ribbon loops finishing the edge and within the edge are arranged little buttons of the material. There is a tiny little fingerie chemise with high collar and tie of black satin and a really beautiful note of color is found in the wide girdle that is embroidered in blue and black silk dots.
